REPORT
OF THE
Superintending School Committee
OF POPLIN,
For the year ending March, 1854.

The Superintending School Committee respectfully submit the following report.

District No. 1.

School money $85,10. Number of pupils, 32. The Summer and Winter terms were both taught by MARY S. BROWN; wages, $8,00. Length of Summer school sixteen weeks; of Winter term twelve weeks. Average attendance in Summer, 17; in Winter 14. We believe the teacher performed the duties of her station faithfully. Those who attended constantly made a commendable progress in the various branches taught. The attendance in this school was decidedly bad, averaging only one half of the whole number. We would also advert to the fact, that every scholar in that District, both summer and winter, attending two weeks or more, were more or less tardy, some of the best scholars, and residing within a few minutes walk of the school house, were tardy a third part of the time, as the School Register will show.

District No. 2.

School money $107,20. Summer term—number of pupils 39.—LYDIA H. VEAZEY of Exeter, teacher; wages $8,00—Length, 16 weeks. Average attendance, 25. We find by the School Register, this school stood the lowest of any in town with regard to deportment, ten being marked below mediocrity. The teacher remarks “I find it nearly or quite impossible to maintain good order with moral suasion alone.” We doubt not there are some in this district too much inclined to be idle, and disorderly, and that a few parents may perhaps countenance these herein, yet we find it generally the case that those teachers who flog the most are the most deficient in maintaining good order. At the close of the term many of the classes appeared well; yet though an ordinary degree of proficiency was apparent, in our opinion the teacher was deficient in energy and perseverance.

Winter Term. SARAH A. WEBSTER, of Danville, teacher; wages $10,00. Number of pupils 39. Length thirteen weeks. Average attendance 27. The attendance of this term was considerably better than the summer term; thirteen were not tardy, and two neither absent or tardy. We think the teacher sustained her character as an experienced and efficient instructor, and those scholars who attended regularly, made a commendable progress in the branches taught.

District No. 3.

School money $79,01. Summer Term. Number of pupils 37.—MARY A. BEEDE, teacher; wages $8,00. Length twelve weeks.—Average attendance 24. Four pupils were found who had not been absent during the term. The School Register was so poorly kept, it was impossible for the Committee to ascertain who were tardy, or who were deficient in deportment. One of us visited this school at the commencement and the other near the middle of the term, but not being informed of the close, and expecting the same teacher would be employed in winter, no examination was had at the close. The teacher failed to report the progress made, as the law requires; we hope however, it was good.

Winter Term. Number of Scholars 39. Average attendance 23. MARIA L. LYFORD of Brentwood, teacher; wages $10,00. The teacher remarks, “The school is distinguished for decision of character and aptness to learn.” Four had not been absent during the term, and several others had not been absent more than from one to six days each. Thirty had not been tardy, and none more than four times each. Whispering that bane of common schools, was mostly excluded from the school. With regard to order, deportment and diligence in study all marked above mediocrity. We may add that the appearance of the school confirmed the report of the teacher. The reading & recitations in the various branches, were highly satisfactory. Method of discipline, moral suasion. The scholars were decorous and studious. The promptness of their answers at the closing examination indicated thorough training and commendable application.—

Their writing was noticeable for neatness, and good improvement.—We regret to say that twelve persons in the district between the ages of four and fourteen, are reported as not attending school anywhere during the winter term.

District No. 4.

School money $46,58, including $14,48 received from Brentwood. Number of pupils 26. ABBY A. FELLOWS, teacher both Summer and Fall; wages $5,00. Length 23 weeks. Average attendance 16 and a half. The average attendance would have been greater, had it not been for some eight or ten scholars from Brentwood who attended only a part of the time. The scholars were prompt to observe the hour with a very few exceptions. This was the first attempt the teacher has made at teaching, her success was fully equal to our expectation. Her kindness and amiable disposition gained the esteem of her pupils, and thus secured good order. A commendable progress was made in the various branches taught.

In the discharge of our official duty we have visited all the schools in town at least twice, and with one exception separately, thus making the least possible expense to the town. Although our labors have been feeble, we hope they have not been wholly in vain. At the commencement of each school we made such remarks and suggestions to teachers and pupils as their various circumstances seemed to require, and in some instances where we entertained fears of good success, we are happy to say the result proved otherwise.

Perhaps our schools may not be far behind many of those in other towns around us, yet they are far from that elevated stand they might, and ought to attain. We consider the irregular and tardy attendance on the part of scholars, and the cold indifference of many parents and citizens toward our common schools to be the greatest obstacles in the way of their upward progress. In addition to the smallness of the average attendance already reported, we would remark that in one district alone the aggregate amount of tardy-marks amount to no less than three hundred and sixty-two. As a proof of the indifference of citizens, only ten are reported as having ventured inside of the walls of the school room in all the districts. The school card was introduced to our schools the present year, but rejected by nearly all parents. The objects of introducing the school card were, firstly, it was believed they would have a tendency to excite the scholar to more diligence in his studies, to a better observance of the rules of the school, and to a more guarded deportment. And secondly, parents would be informed weekly from the teacher, whether their children had or not been diligent in their studies, observed the rules of school, been absent or tardy, been decorous, and being informed of the true character of their children would be better able to correct whatever faults they may have assumed.

The committee are more or less embarrassed every year, in making out their report by reason of deficiencies in the reports of teachers, two only reported all the law requires, the present year, the other four of course were not entitled to their pay. We would recommend that Selectmen withhold the school money from Prudential Committees, until they are presented with a certificate from the Superintending Committee that the teacher has made a full report.

Prudential School Committees are under no small responsibility, they should exercise much caution and prudence in their selection of teachers. All persons offering themselves for teachers, should be able in the first instance, to furnish some evidence of their capacity to serve in that office. Good teachers make good scholars, but poor teachers are worse than none,—literary acquirements are not all that are needed in the teacher, he should be able to communicate knowledge to others, in an easy familiar manner—to make his explanations plain and concise, he should also feel an interest in his pupil, as well as in getting his pay. We deem it of the utmost importance that our schools should be kept under eminently good instructors, ever remembering that

*"Tis education forms the common mind ;
Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined,* every individual in the community is, to a greater or less extent, interested in common school education. When the day arrives, that every person shall have as good an education as can be obtained in his own town, then pauperism and crime will be diminished, and happiness and prosperity will follow in their train.

As we love our country, as we would have our government wisely, and justly administered, as we would have honest and intelligent Juries, in whose hands our property, our liberty, and even our lives may be placed, so we should foster and encourage Education.
